Veterans Service Organizations (VSOs): Frequently Asked Questions

Veterans Service Organizations (VSOs) offer a range of services for veterans, servicemembers, dependents, and survivors. Some VSOs may provide programming for veterans in their communities, such as job fairs; others may organize events to raise money for a subset of veterans, such as housing for homeless veterans. Some VSOs train individuals to meet federal regulatory requirements to become accredited representatives who can represent claimants before the Department of Veterans Affairs' (VA's) regional offices and its Board of Veterans' Appeals. This report answers frequently asked questions to clarify how VSOs are funded, administered, and connected to the federal government.

What Are Veterans Service Organizations?

Veterans Service Organizations (VSOs) are organizations that aid and serve veterans, servicemembers, dependents, and survivors. Descriptions of different types of VSOs appear in the Department of Veterans Affairs' (VA's) 2019 Directory: Veterans and Military Service Organizations and State Directors of Veterans Affairs (Directory of VSOs).¹

According to the directory, VSOs may fall into one or more of the following categories:

- congressionally chartered organizations;²
- organizations recognized by VA;³
- organizations recognized by VA to prepare, present, and prosecute claims;⁴
- national organizations;⁵
- state, county, or tribal governmental organizations;⁶
- regional or local organizations;⁷ or
- nonprofit organizations.

There is no uniformly applied statutory definition of the term VSO, but certain laws use the term more narrowly than the Directory of VSOs. For example, the Veterans Appeals Improvement and Modernization Act of 2017 (P.L. 115-55) stated: “The term ‘veterans service organization’ means any organization recognized by the Secretary for the representation of veterans under section 5902 of title 38, United States Code.” Any organization that addresses veterans’ needs may call itself a VSO.

What Services and Activities Are Supported by Veterans Service Organizations?

VSOs serve veterans, and their activities may encompass a range of services, such as

- providing programming for veterans in their communities, such as job fairs;
- organizing events to raise money for a subset of veterans, such as housing for homeless veterans; or
- providing access to accredited veterans service representatives who can help veterans when they apply for VA benefits.

³ 38 C.F.R. §14.628 (Recognition of Organizations).

⁴ According to VA’s Office of General Counsel,

Under the authority granted in section 5902 of title 38, United States Code, VA may recognize organizations for the purpose of assisting claimants for VA benefits in the preparation, presentation, and prosecution of their claims. VA has implemented this authority in section 14.628 of title 38, Code of Federal Regulations, which prescribes the application requirements for national, state, and regional or local organizations.

⁵ 38 C.F.R. §14.628(a).

⁶ 38 C.F.R. §14.628(b)(1) (State organizations); 38 C.F.R. §14.628(b)(2) (Tribal organizations).

⁷ 38 C.F.R. §14.628(c).

Are Veterans Service Organizations Federal Agencies?

VSOs are not federal agencies. VSOs may be nonprofit organizations or state, county, tribal, or local government agencies. Employees who work for VSOs are not federal employees.

However, the VA Secretary may make space available in departmental facilities for individuals who work for national VSOs that have been recognized by the Secretary. According to 38 U.S.C. §5902(a)(2), “the Secretary may, in the discretion of the Secretary, furnish, if available, space and office facilities for the use of paid full-time representatives of national organizations so recognized.” Thus, while employees of some VSOs may be physically working at VA federal facilities, they are not federal workers. The VSO employees are positioned in these facilities to conveniently assist veterans, their spouses, and their beneficiaries.

What Are Congressionally Chartered Veterans Service Organizations?

Congressionally chartered VSOs are organizations that have been granted charters by Congress through the enactment of public laws. Each congressionally chartered VSO is listed in 36 U.S.C. Subtitle II: Patriotic and National Organizations.

A VSO is “congressionally chartered” if Congress has passed a law that chartered the organization. Provisions related to congressional charters are codified in 36 U.S.C. Subtitle II.⁸ According to the Directory of VSOs,⁹ the last VSO chartered by Congress was the Military Officers Association of America in 2009.¹⁰ Congress may amend existing charters, which often include conditions for membership, mission, or other characteristics of the particular VSO. Among the congressionally chartered VSOs are the American Legion,¹¹ which was chartered in 1919, and Disabled American Veterans (DAV),¹² which was chartered in 1932.

What Are Recognized Veterans Service Organizations?

A recognized VSO is one that has been recognized by VA,¹³ which means that the organization has satisfied multiple requirements outlined in 38 C.F.R. §14.628. Recognized VSOs may be national organizations, state organizations, regional or local organizations, or tribal organizations.¹⁴ Recognized VSOs are not individually named in the U.S. Code. Authority to determine that a VSO is “recognized” is granted to the VA Secretary in 38 U.S.C. §5902 (Recognition of representatives of organizations). The specific regulations that apply to recognized VSOs appear in 38 C.F.R. §14.628 (Recognition of organizations).

⁸ CRS has a nondistributable, archived report on congressionally chartered organizations, RL30340, Congressionally Chartered Nonprofit Organizations (“Title 36 Corporations”): What They Are and How Congress Treats Them, which explains this process.

¹¹ See 36 U.S.C. §§21701-21708.

¹² See 36 U.S.C. §§50301-50309.

¹³ 38 C.F.R. §14.628(d) describes the requirements that must be met for recognition.

¹⁴ See VA, “Recognition of Tribal Organizations for Representation of VA Claimants,” 82 Federal Register 6265, January 19, 2017.

The requirements to become a recognized VSO include, but are not limited to

- having a primary purpose to serve veterans;
- demonstrating commitment to veterans through a sizeable organizational membership or performance of veterans services;
- committing a significant portion of the organization’s assets to veterans services; and
- submitting evidence that the organization will represent claimants or that it will inform claimants on how to find accredited representation.

VSOs provide evidence to the VA Secretary that they meet these criteria through documentation (e.g., membership data, bylaws, description of services provided, and copies of their financial statements). In cases where the organization provides VA claims services, evidence must be provided that the group has the capability to represent claimants before VA regional offices and VA’s Board of Veterans’ Appeals.

Not all recognized VSOs provide accredited representatives to represent claimants. The recognized VSOs that do not represent claimants must illustrate how they will inform veterans of the limited services they can provide, as well as how they will advise veterans on how to find accredited representation.

Do Veterans Service Organizations Provide Access to Accredited Representatives?

Recognized VSOs may provide access to accredited representatives, who assist claimants with their affairs before VA. (For more information on recognized VSOs, see “What Are Recognized Veterans Service Organizations?”)

Recognized VSOs submit applications of individuals seeking to become accredited representatives to VA’s Office of General Counsel for accreditation. These applications include evidence that the individuals have been trained and meet specific qualifications.¹⁵ Recognized VSOs that provide access to accredited representatives often also provide the required continuing learning credits that representatives must periodically complete.

Accredited representatives who work for VSOs may not charge their clients fees.

How Are Veterans Service Organizations Funded?

VSOs may receive funding from state, county, or private funding sources. They may also receive federal grants to support specific activities.

Do Veterans Service Organizations Provide Reports to the Federal Government?

Certain VSOs have varying federal reporting requirements. Some may be required to file with the Internal Revenue Service (IRS);¹⁶ others may be required to submit reports as a result of ¹⁵ See 38 U.S.C. §§5901-5905; 38 C.F.R. §§14.626-14.637.

¹⁶ See CRS Report R40919, An Overview of the Nonprofit and Charitable Sector for filing information.

provisions in their congressional charters.¹⁷ However, there is no uniform requirement for all VSOs or all congressionally chartered VSOs to submit reports.

Does Veterans Affairs Provide Grants Specifically for Veterans Service Organizations?

Most VA support is designed to aid individual veterans rather than organizations that serve veterans. On occasion, Congress has authorized VA to administer grants for which applications may be solicited from VSOs. For example, the Veterans Transportation Program notes the following requirement for applicants for its Highly Rural Transportation Grants:

Only a Veterans Service Organization (VSO) or a State Veterans Service Agency can apply, according to paragraphs (a)(2)(A)-(B) of section 307 of the 2010 Act. VSO must be recognized by the Secretary of Veterans Affairs for the representation of Veterans under section 5902 of Title 38, United States Code.¹⁸

Do Other Federal Agencies Offer Grants for Veterans Service Organizations?

VSOs may be eligible for federal support based on the services they provide or the community needs they fill. For more information on funding, congressional offices may consult the CRS “Grants and Federal Assistance” page, available at <https://www.crs.gov/Resources/Grants>.
